EDITORIAL

THE WAY FORWARD

The holy writ enjoins adherents of its faith to seek the prosperity of Jerusalem and become prosperous for doing so. For this editorial, Jerusalem is to be replaced by the Polytechnic. The kernel of this writing is to rally all stakeholders once again, as the Editorial Board has always done, to eschew whatever is capable of wrecking the peace of this academic community.

The political leadership of the institution, ably represented by the Governing Council under the chairmanship of Professor Maureen Ongoebi Etebu has shown commitment to its steady growth and prosperity since its official inauguration. The series of marathon meetings with ALL stakeholders during its Inaugural meeting amply demonstrates this commitment.

The Council moved in a manner that remains unprecedented in the recent history of the Polytechnic to clear all outstanding promotions of all categories of staff. The Chair of Council assured stakeholders during her inaugural meeting with them that promotion letters would be issued in a matter of days. It was incredible. Letters were indeed issued the week following her promise.

Vacancies for the Registrar and Bursar were filled as quickly as possible. Not done, the administrative leadership of the Polytechnic under the superintendence of the Rector, his principal officers and management staff rose eminently to the yearnings of the workforce by granting conversion to qualified staff. This singular action, also a rarity in recent times, has imbued staff with additional impetus for increased productivity and commitment in the workplace.

In the not-too-distant past, the Chair of Council attended a meeting of the Committee of Council Chairmen in Nigeria. Using the platform granted her to make a presentation at the forum, Prof Etebu did a commendable job of positive public relations for our Polytechnic. The meat of her presentation is reported in this edition. The raison d'être for this background is to re-awaken us to the urgent need to place our hands on deck as we paddle our canoe forward, whether or not the waters are turbulent or serene.

Nobody gains anything by working sedulously to factionalise the workforce for ulterior motives. Nobody benefits from manufacturing and spreading untruths instead of promoting a culture of academic and administrative excellence.

As leaders in our respective spheres of influence and as in loco parentis to our students, it behoves us to engender and maintain an ambience of cohesive and harmonious co-existence and cohabitation amongst staff and students. It is worthwhile to reiterate that staff welfare has been a priority since the start of this administration. Headship allowances in all categories have been jerked up. End-of-year compensations, examination bonuses and part-time claims have been offset without acrimonious agitations from staff unions.

Academic calendars have run on schedule. Semester examinations have come and gone without hitches. The concatenation of these cheering scenarios has prompted the Editorial Board to conclude that the current approach is the best way forward. It is indeed, The Way Forward.

"As leaders in our respective spheres of influence and as in loco parentis to our students, it behoves us to engender and maintain an ambience of cohesive and harmonious co-existence and cohabitation amongst staff and students."

Harness the Skills and Knowledge Imparted, be good ambassador – Alake admonishes students

Students of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado-Ekiti, have been admonished to harness the various skills and knowledge imparted to them and be good ambassadors of the Institution wherever they find themselves in the near future.

The Rector, Dr. Temitope John Alake, gave the admonition at the Induction Ceremony of the 2023/2024 Higher National Diploma (HND) Computer Science Graduates into the Computer Professionals (Registration Council of Nigeria) at the Polytechnic Conference Hall on 14th of October, 2024.

The Rector, who was represented by the Deputy Rector Administration, Dr. Michael Akinola, gave kudos to the Dean, Head of Department and other staff of Computer Science for a job well done in training the students. While congratulating the students for embarking on a journey that will push them to greater heights, he urged them not to relent in building on their certificates.

Dr. Akinola therefore encouraged the students to keep the flag flying by working hard in their respective fields and ensuring that the good image that the Institution has built over the years is not tarnished.

In his submission, the Guest Speaker, Dr. Abiodun Oguntimilehin, noted that the future of Computer Science is bright as various fields emerge in the digital world every day, and it is an avenue for them to go out and make a difference in the midst of hardship.

Dr. Oguntimilehin stated that whatever they have been taught in the Institution is a stepping-stone to become contributors to national development, and such a relationship should not be jeopardized as they must always look back to their roots.

The Guest Speaker also encouraged the graduands to build a strong portfolio by acquiring more skills, engaging in networking, dressing properly, getting actively involved in projects online, attending conferences and developing great communication skills.

Earlier in his opening address, the Dean, School of Science and Computer Studies, Dr. Babajide Afolayan, who was represented by Dr. Remi Akinyemi, congratulated the inductees for witnessing such an occasion and prayed that it would mark the beginning of greatness in their lives.

Dr. Akinyemi advised them to be good ambassadors of the Polytechnic, leverage networking and engage in resources online, as any meaningful appointment will require having a professional certificate. He added that engaging with professional bodies would keep them abreast of information on various conferences and workshops.

The highlight of the event was the induction oath taken by the graduands led by the Head of Department, presentation of professional certificates and the award of excellence given to the four best graduating students in the department of Computer Science.

IT CERTIFICATE NOW MANDATORY FOR POLYTECHNIC GRADUATES SAYS NBTE

The National Board for Technical Education, NBTE has said Polytechnic students must now obtain the Industrial Training Mandatory Certificate in order to be mobilized for the National Youth Service Corps, NYSC.

The NBTE Director of SIWES/NYSC Liaison, Mallam Dauda Baba Halah who made this known at the exit interview of the SIWES Accreditation exercise held at the Institution, noted that the exercise is to make the Institution better and to ensure that the students have firsthand experience in their course of study.

Mallam Dauda Baba Halah stated that it was important to put in place some safety measures, equipment/facilities in the Students' Industrial Work Experience Scheme, SIWES office in order to avoid unnecessary errors and to maintain a good working environment for the staff and students.

He also recommended a proper student's industrial training logbook for the Institution and maintained that information about SIWES should be included in the students' handbook for them to be aware of the courses available for such programmes.

The NBTE Director of SIWES/NYSC Liaison noted that the tenure of Departmental SIWES Coordinators should not be more than two years to give room for others to understudy and serve in such position.

Rector of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado-Ekiti, Engr. (Dr) Temitope John Alake appreciated the Director for making efforts at ensuring that the needed manpower and facility improvement are put in place to move the Institution forward.

The Rector, who was represented by the Deputy Rector, Academics, Dr. Aderemi Akinyemi assured the Director of the Management's readiness to improve on the services of the SIWES office for optimal results.

Dr. Akinyemi stated that the Polytechnic is not resting on its oars, as there are various ongoing projects that would be completed in no distant time.

He added that the next edition of the students' Handbook and prospectus would capture information on SIWES to keep the students abreast of necessary information.

DRUG ABUSE A MENACE TO THE SOCIETY - ALAKE

Drug Abuse has been described as a dominant malaise among youths in the Country and needs to be nipped in the bud.

This canker worm, which is fast becoming a prevalent vice is most unacceptable and all hands must be on deck to curb it.

The Rector of The Federal Polytechnic Ado Ekiti Engr. (Dr) Temitope John Alake made this assertion when he received in audience the Executive Council members of the Nigerian Youths Council (NYC) from the 16 Local Government Areas in Ekiti State.

Dr. Alake noted that the Youths of today will become the adults of tomorrow therefore they need to be regulated and moderated to make them better and prosperous adults of tomorrow.

Speaking further Dr. Alake said the government is now paying attention to skill acquisition as this has become inevitable, "the white-collar jobs are no longer available; hence emphasis is now placed on the acquisition of skills for the teeming Youths population. "When you don't have skills, you have nothing to fall back on even after your education, hence the Youths needs to be encouraged to embrace professional courses and vocational Technical Education from the Secondary School".

He however called on the government to further encourage the youths to pick up vocational skills by paying them stipend in the course of their training as this will go a long way in motivating them.

Earlier in their submission, the Chairman of NYC, Ekiti Aare Adedara Tope who led the delegation promised their support and cooperation to the Management of the Institution as led by Dr. T.J Alake

He also noted that they were out to continue to promote the legacies of the founding fathers of Ekiti State through its sustainability, as this is part of the objective of the Council.

Furthermore, as part of its programmes they have resolved to embark on a campaign to discourage drug abuse among youths in the State. The campaign they noted will be held in all towns and villages of the state. This is with a view to discouraging the youth from taking illicit substances

He however solicited for the support of the institution to make the campaign a success.

REGISTRY STAFF ADMONISHED TO BE DEDICATED, MORE COMMITTED TO DUTY

Registry Staff of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado-Ekiti have been admonished to improve on their job, embrace the spirit of oneness and extend a helping hand to one another to move the Registry and the Institution forward.

The Registrar of the Institution, Mrs. Folashade Akintola gave the admonition in a meeting with various Heads of Directorate/Units and members of the Registry respectively.

Mrs. Akintola who appreciated God for bringing everyone into the New Year safely noted that the Registry would take a new turn, as meetings will be held from time to time in order to brainstorm and proffer solutions to whatever challenges in the various Directorates/Units.

The Registrar maintained that the quarterly in-house training and retraining of staff and the Annual Registry Lecture Series will be set in motion and called on all Heads of Directorates/Units to encourage their subordinates to key into the idea as it would help boost their career, and a lot of errors would be avoided on the job.

She added that attending conferences just to get certificates is not enough but members of staff must be ready to present papers at such meetings to improve themselves and be well informed

Mrs. Akintola also urged members of staff who have been posted to various schools to work in the interest of the Registry wherever they are posted to.

The Registrar further stated that the Registry Ceremonies Committee that was set up in the previous year has been able to come up with a lot of ideas that would help move the Registry forward.

“The welfare scheme/Ceremonies Committee held series of meetings and has come up with a detailed report. The committee recommended the creation of Registry WhatsApp platform, which has already been created”.

“They also recommended that members of staff will be contributing some amount of money monthly. Staff from level 1- 6 will be paying a sum of one thousand naira, while level 7-14 will be contributing two thousand naira making it a yearly contribution of twelve thousand naira and twenty-four thousand naira respectively”.

She opined that the contribution would be used to generate revenue for the Registry, end of year get-together, celebration of retirees, award of excellence to staff with excellent performance and cash gifts would be given to Staff who have one celebration or the other. She added that members of staff are only entitled to one gift per year.

Mrs. Akintola further admonished everyone to continue to pray for the growth of the Polytechnic, cooperate with one another and dress nicely to work, “as the way you dress is the way you will be addressed,” she added

Also speaking at the meeting, Deputy Registrar and also the Chairman of SSANIP, Mr. Sunday Komolafe noted that the Rector, Dr. Temitope John Alake is currently working towards members of staff acquiring one certificate program or the other to improve themselves.

Mr. Komolafe maintained that it is important to be ICT compliant as the world is going digital. He implored everyone to grab the opportunity of learning as the programme starts.

ONLY PEACE CAN BRING ABOUT DEVELOPMENT - ALAKE

Members of the Federal Polytechnic community have been admonished to cultivate good attitude towards work, embrace peace and harmony as only in such atmosphere can things of high productivity emerge.

The Rector of the Polytechnic, Dr. Temitope John Alake who gave the charge during the last community meeting of the year with members of the Polytechnic Community on Monday, 2nd of December, 2024 appreciated God for seeing the Institution through another Academic year.

Dr. Alake gave kudos to the members of the 12th Governing Council, under the leadership of Prof. Ongoebi Maureen Etebu for swinging into action as soon as they came onboard.

“I want to sincerely appreciate the 12th Governing Council members for a job well done. The 2024 promotion exercise has been completed and I am sure that members of staff due for such promotions have received their letters. Also, the 2025 promotion had been completed”.

The Rector, while thanking members of staff for their cooperation and commitment towards work, admonished all to keep up the good work, be considerate of one another, inject patriotic ideas into junior colleagues coming behind and keep praying for the Management of the Institution.

He also appreciated some members of staff who represented the Institution in Abuja at a National Research exhibition programme put together by TetFund code name TETFAIR2 “Out of six critical projects that were approved, two were selected from the Polytechnic. We got patency for one of the products through the help of TetFund. The other one is called a Language Translator, first of its kind. They will all be celebrated”, he added.

Dr. Alake maintained that there is an urgent need for members of staff to upgrade their qualifications and be ICT compliant.

“Some circulars have been flying around that the Federal Government will be going digital in no distant time. If you find out that your certificate is no longer obtainable, try as much as possible to upgrade yourself. The Skill Development Centre is opened to everyone. I implore you to go there and register. There is a position of quality assurance assessment, which is compulsory for the Principal Officers”, he added.

He also stated that members who have applied for conversion should equip themselves ahead of the interview.

The Rector further said that there is no approval for recruitment at the moment but the Institution is hoping that the Federal Government is able to raise the personnel budget in order to accommodate new members of staff into the Polytechnic.

He added that the promotion arrears from 2018 till date has been compiled and forwarded to the appropriate quarters due to the Polytechnic's exit from IPPIS and hoped that the money will be paid in no distant time.

Dr. Alake stated that the license fee for the Polytechnic

Radio, 97.5FM, has been paid and it will start airing after all other necessary measures have been put in place.

He called on members of staff who have connections with philanthropists and other well-meaning individuals in the society, to prevail on them to invest in the Institution by bringing in various things that will expand the Polytechnic and in turn help the people.

The Rector frowned at some members of staff who are fond of writing petitions and advised them to desist from such act instead embrace the Alternative Dispute Resolution channels to air their grievances.

On the issue of security, he noted that it is the business of everyone to be observant and vigilant about what is going on in the Polytechnic.

While corroborating the appeal of Dr. Isaac Oladipo on indiscriminate bush burning, the Rector added that members of the Polytechnic community should be careful of burning their refuse as we have approached the dry season.

Giving the vote of thanks, the Registrar, Mrs. Folashade Akintola appreciated everyone for coming out in their large numbers even with such short notice, adding that it is a testament to the strength and commitment of members of staff to the Institution.

Mr. Akintola appealed to everyone to continue to work towards the progress of the Polytechnic and prayed that the Institution will continue to move forward.

ALUMNI BODY CELEBRATES AKANDE IN GRAND SYTLE

In a grand ceremony filled with excitement and joy, the Alumni Association of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado-Ekiti celebrated the 5th substantive Rector of the Institution, Dr. Mrs. Taiwo Theresa Akande in a grand style.

The event held at the Polytechnic Alumni building brought together families, friends, Alumnus and well-wishers who had passed through her tutelage to honour the hard work, dedication and achievement of the 5th Substantive Rector.

Speaking at the occasion, which also served as the Annual General meeting of the body, the National Alumni President, Surv. (Dr.) Oyedokun Abiodun noted that her tenure was a period of significant growth and transformation for the institution.

"The Alumni Association started in December 7th during the tenure of Prof. Ajaja and when Dr. Akande came on board, they both deemed it fit to commence the Alumni building structure and In 2014, the first chapter was inaugurated in Port Harcourt"

Surv. Oyedokun stated that Dr. Akande's unwavering faith in the graduates of the polytechnic has led to the employment of many Alumni and has also provided many opportunities to contribute to the growth of their alma mater.

The Alumni National President added that her leadership was characterized by empathy, understanding and a genuine desire to uplift others, and that the reception is a testament to the profound impact she has made on lives.

"She went beyond the call of duty, supporting students in need and extending a helping hand to those who were struggling. Her kindness and compassion have touched the lives of countless individual", he noted.

He expressed his heartfelt gratitude for her selfless service and unwavering support and prayed that her legacy will continue to inspire future generations of the Polytechnic.

Acknowledging her invaluable contribution to the Polytechnic, the Deputy Rector, Academic, Dr. Remi

Akinyemi praised her dedication and commitment to driving progress effortlessly, despite the various challenges she faced during her tenure as Rector.

Dr. Akinyemi expressed deep gratitude for her resilient character, which has helped in mentoring and uplifting others including himself and has in turn helped her in overcoming life challenges victoriously.

He further described Dr. Akande as an icon whose contribution to the growth and development of the Alumni body will not be forgotten.

He prayed that God will grant her good health to enable her to render more service to humanity.

In her remarks, Mrs. Busola Olorunda, appreciated the former Rector for instilling good values in her and for always standing for the truth.

Mrs. Olorunda stated that her good works will continue to linger on in the heart of everyone who has passed through her and prayed that she will enjoy the fruit of her labour.

Looking resplendent in a shimmering gold gown, with a smile plastering across her face, Dr. Akande expressed deep gratitude to all the members of FEDPAAA and other well-wishers in the Polytechnic for the honour accorded her.

Dr. Akande who went down memory lane stated that the last eight years of her thirty-eight years in the services of the Polytechnic had taught her valuable lessons. She therefore admonished everyone in the gathering to be watchful of what goes out of their mouths as it could either make or mar the life of a person.

The former Rector also challenged every member of the Polytechnic community to support the leadership, uphold the faith at all times, and to stand in total service and conviction in the omnipotence and justice of God.

She appreciated the National Alumni President, Dr. Oyedokun for deeming it fit to celebrate her, noting that it has served as healing to her soul and hoped that the event will serve as a wakeup call to enable everyone serve selflessly in whatever position they find themselves.

She prayed that FEDPAAA will continue to grow from grace to grace and will always be led by good leaders who carry the love and will to serve selflessly in all respects.

Giving the vote of thanks, the State Chairman, of the Alumni Association, Mr. Ayoade Adesola noted that the great turn out of people has served as a testament of the good works displayed by the former Rector during her tenure in the Polytechnic.

He appreciated everyone for gracing the occasion and prayed that God will continue to uphold her in all her future endeavours.

The highlight of the event was the presentation of cash gifts and other valuable items to the celebrant.

Federal Poly Ado Must Become a University of Technology - Aare Afe Babalola

The founder of the Afe Babalola University, Aare Afe Babalola has again reiterated his commitment towards the growth and development of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado Ekiti.

Aare Afe Babalola made this known while receiving in his office, the newly inaugurated 12th Governing Council members of the Institution under the leadership of Prof. Ongoebi Maureen Etebu, with the Management team on a courtesy visit.

While he went down memory lane on how the Federal Polytechnic came about, the foremost educationist recounted the trajectory of its establishment and how it has developed into what it has become today.

Aare Babalola who described his love for education maintained that it has always been his desire and dream to witness the Federal Polytechnic, Ado Ekiti, develop and become a Federal University of Technology. He hoped that it would come to fruition in the nearest future in order to realize its full potential.

Speaking further, Aare Babalola noted that the Institution is very blessed at such time to have brilliant and intellectual minds that have been privileged to occupy various offices and have gotten to the peak of their professions.

Extolling the Council Chairman, Baba Afe Babalola said, "I love education so much. Education is a powerful tool that lifts you and allows people appreciate you the more. I have been to the whole of West Africa and have not come across someone with such multiple degrees. As a woman of many degrees, I believe you are full of ideas. Together with other members, let us do things that will differentiate us from other Polytechnics. We can have the best Engineering department in the whole of Nigeria".

The visionary founder admonished the 12th Governing Council members to draw from their wealth of experience as intellectuals and do something better than they have met in order to move the Institution forward. He further called for collaboration between the Polytechnic and the University on research works.

Earlier in her remarks, the 12th Governing Council Chairman, Prof. Ongoebi Maureen Etebu lauded the achievements of the Founder and appreciated him for the numerous assistance and efforts rendered to the Institution over the years.

"We are very grateful our Baba. God has used you as an instrument through which the Polytechnic was relocated from Akure to Ado Ekiti and we have also been intimated on how you have been a pillar of support to the Institution ever since then"

Prof. Ongoebi noted that she has been opportuned to pass through various Universities in the Country either by learning or impacting knowledge, but none supersedes the Afe Babalola University. "When it comes to the enabling and conducive environment for the students to thrive and most importantly the capable hands that are readily on ground to impact knowledge into the lives of the students, your University tops the list", she added.

She opined that their visit to the University was to draw from the wealth of experience and expertise of the visionary founder, while assuring that the 12th Governing Council together with the Management of the Polytechnic were ready to take the bull by its horn to bring about great developmental strides that would take the Institution to its zenith.

Prof. Ongoebi prayed that as Baba Afe Babalola has chosen to impact knowledge into lives, God Almighty will strengthen him the more and his legacy will outlive him and last from generations to generations.

The Rector of the Institution, Dr. Temitope John Alake, while presenting gifts to Baba Afe Babalola, appreciated his quest for driving sanity to Nigerian education and for standing by the Polytechnic, most especially in recent times.

Dr. Alake assured the founder that the Institution will not in any way disappoint him but will continue to build on itself in order to achieve the much-desired result of ranking as the best amongst its equals.

Giving the vote of thanks, the Registrar, Mrs. Folashade Akintola expressed her heartfelt appreciation to Baba Afe Babalola for his contributions towards the betterment of education and his efforts at ensuring that Ekiti State moves forward.

Mrs. Akintola noted that his numerous contributions and philanthropic acts are seen and enjoyed by everyone in the state and prayed that his strength will not diminish.

USE YOUR EXPERIENCE TO PROFFER SOLUTIONS TO PROBLEMS – EWI ADMONISHES COUNCIL

The 12th Governing Council of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado Ekiti, have been admonished to draw from their wealth of experience, harness their God given potentials, in order to proffer adequate solutions to areas of challenges in the Institution.

Giving the charge, the Ewi of Ado Ekiti, Oba (Dr.) Rufus Adeyemo Adejugbe, Aladesanmi III noted that the Polytechnic is blessed to have such caliber of people who have gotten to the apex of their careers as members of Council and he prayed that their tenure will be a peaceful one.

Oba Adejugbe appreciated the 12th Governing Council members and Management team for deeming it fit to pay a courtesy visit to his office, while assuring the Institution of his continuous support whenever the need arises.

Earlier in her remarks, the 12th Governing Council Chairperson, Prof. Ongoebi Maureen Etebu lauded the efforts of the Ewi for his numerous supports, especially the fatherly role he has been playing to the Polytechnic.

Prof. Ongoebi assured him that the Council and Management would engender unwavering cooperation in its collective drive towards the attainment and sustenance of academic excellence in the Institution.

She expressed her displeasure at the aggressive encroachment and trespass on the Polytechnic land by the host community and the Suraju-Deen Nursery & Primary school owned by the State Government situated within the Polytechnic land along Ado/Ijan road. She implored the Ewi to use his good office to influence the relocation of the Primary school and to intervene on issues that borders on land encroachment.

Prof. Ongoebi added that the Federal Government cannot bear the responsibility of providing infrastructural facilities in the Institution alone. She therefore solicited the support of the State Government, public-spirited individuals, private and public organizations to help provide facilities such as lecture theaters, workshops, laboratories, access roads, hostels among others.

She also appealed to the Ewi to use his high position to facilitate the rehabilitation of the Polytechnic access road in order to alleviate the stress that the staff and students go through on a daily basis.

While presenting gifts, the Rector, Dr. Temitope John Alake appreciated the Ewi for his love and support towards the Institution at all times and assured that the Institution will not be distant but the town and gown relationship will continue to improve.

Dr. Alake maintained that the Polytechnic, in its drive towards technological advancement has done everything possible to ensure that life is bearable for its students. "The Institution is trying its best to ensure that we don't breed restive youths. We don't underestimate the low class, we try as much as possible to accommodate and encourage Nigerian youths to find their place in the society", he added.

Giving the vote of thanks, the Registrar, Mrs. Folashade Akintola expressed great pleasure to the Ewi for the warm reception and assured him that the Polytechnic will continue to strive for the best and not disappoint the land.

FEDPOLY ADO 12TH GOVERNING COUNCIL, COMMITTED TO ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

The newly inaugurated 12th Governing Council of the Federal Polytechnic Ado Ekiti has assured of its commitment in the collective drive towards the attainment and sustenance of academic excellence.

Chairperson of the 12th Governing Council, Prof. Ongoebi Maureen Etebu who gave the assurance while paying a courtesy visit to the Commissioner of Police in Ekiti State gave kudos to the Police command for a job well done within the Polytechnic and its environs.

Prof. Etebu noted that the Council had been briefed on the constant support of the Police command in securing the Polytechnic and the peaceful atmosphere which the Institution has always enjoyed at all times.

The Governing Council Chairperson clamored for the continuous support and assistance of the Police Command in achieving the desired goals of taking the Polytechnic to its zenith.

In his remarks, the Rector, Dr. Temitope John Alake appreciated the Commissioner of Police and his team for maintaining a good relationship with the Institution over the years and called for more assistance especially in the occasional combing of places that poses threats to lives and properties.

Dr. Alake further craved for sustained relationship between the Polytechnic and the Police Command while assuring that the Institution was ready to give maximum cooperation whenever the need arises, as security is not the job of the Police alone.

The Commissioner of Police, Mr. Adeniran Akinwale who expressed happiness at the visit stated that the Management of the Polytechnic is receptive, very understanding and good to relate with. This he said has made it easy for the Police to have a robust relationship with the Institution.

CP Akinwale noted that value system has changed even as the world is evolving and it will take time and proper strategy to control the youths but he assured that the Police will continue to try its possible best to serve the Polytechnic better not because of the present situation but due to the existing relationship.

He added that the Federal Polytechnic is well grounded and the courtesy visit would further spur them in the discharge of their duties to the Institution.

Giving the vote of thanks, Prof. Mojisola Oyarekua a member of the 12th Governing Council appreciated the Commissioner of Police and his team for the warm reception and urged them to continue the good works as the security of lives and properties would create a conducive and enabling environment to thrive.

Also, DCP Abimbola Ayodeji Olugbenga thanked the Management of the Institution for deeming it fit to pay a courtesy visit to the Police Command. He stated that the Institution is blessed with the caliber of people in the 12th Governing Council and believed that solutions would be proffered to issues concerning Polytechnic education in no distant time

FEDPOLY ADO 12TH GOVERNING COUNCIL HITS THE GROUND RUNNING

The Chairperson of the 12th Governing Council of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado Ekiti, Prof. Ongoebi Maureen Etebu has harped on the need for members of staff to strive hard to become relevant irrespective of their profession.

Prof. Etebu who stated this at the first Congregation meeting with the Polytechnic community noted that challenges are platforms for advancement in life and emphasized on the need for everyone especially females to improve on themselves by acquiring necessary trainings and being registered with professional bodies.

The Governing Council Chairperson assured the meeting that pending issues bothering on staff matters have been discussed and immediate attention would be given to those due for promotion to the next level. She added that the Registry would be given a time frame to get the letters ready in no distant time.

She noted that it is very important for the Polytechnic to have the required number of Principal Officers and therefore assured the meeting that short listing and necessary interviews will be carried out for the post of substantive Registrar, Bursar and Librarian respectively within three months.

Prof. Etebu stressed that the issue of promotion arrears and other benefits was not within the purview of the Governing Council but they will try their possible best to ensure that something is done to hasten the payment process.

She therefore urged the Polytechnic community to reciprocate the gesture by working hand in glove with the 12th Governing Council and Management in order to take the Institution to greater heights.

In his remarks, the Rector, Dr. Temitope John Alake appreciated members of staff for their teamwork spirit and the support they have shown his administration since he assumed office.

Dr. Alake stated that with the present situation of Nigeria's economy, workers have managed to carry out their duties without any issues. This he said has contributed in a great way to the growth and development of the Institution.

The Rector maintained that the Polytechnic is blessed with vibrant and intelligent minds who are always ready to make suggestions and constructive criticisms that would move the Institution forward.

He therefore assured the Chairperson and other members of the 12th^h Governing Council that their stay in the Institution would be a pleasant one as members of staff are at all times ready to support them.

BE GOOD AMBASSADORS OF THE POLYTECHNIC - STUDENTS CHARGED

The Rector of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado Ekiti, Dr. Temitope Alake has charged the students to work hard, be determined and diligent in their academic pursuit in order to achieve greatness in life.

Dr. Alake who gave the charge at the 2023/2024 Students Industrial Work Experience Scheme (SIWES) Orientation Program stated that the Institution is widely known for excellence and it behooves the students to keep the flag flying wherever they get to in life.

The Rector who was represented by the Deputy Rector Academics, Dr. Olusegun Dada maintained that the SIWES program has been in existence for a very long time and it is very important for the students to make judicious use of the period of experience, maintain discipline and comport themselves as soon as they commence the program.

He appreciated the Industrial Training Fund Officials for the good relationship they have maintained with the Institution overtime and the help rendered when it comes to the submission of the student's logbook.

Dr. Alake further craved for the assistance of the ITF Officials in whatever capacity they can render while assuring that the Institution will continue to support them whenever the need arises.

The representative of the ITF Area Manager, Mr. Ifedayo Ojo thanked the Management of the Institution for having the interest of its students at heart and for the constant support given to them at all times.

Mr. Ojo urged the students to reciprocate the gesture by carrying out their assignment diligently, pay rapt attention to whatever they will be taught and most importantly project the good image of the Polytechnic in good light.

The ITF Area Manager stated that the SIWES Director General is concerned about the safety of the students and the office is working assiduously to have a branch in Ekiti State in order to ease their movement.

The Acting Registrar, Mr. Olayinka Babalola who spoke on the topic 'Dress Ethics, Moral Uprightness and its Corresponding Values as a Tool for the Prevention of Sexual Harassment in the Work Place' noted that conducting oneself with integrity and dressing in a responsible manner promotes a respectful environment where everyone feels safe and valued.

Mr. Babalola maintained that societal values create awareness for people to understand their roles and to promote unity and cooperation. He therefore encouraged the students to embrace individual differences, manage their emotions wisely and consider the impact of their actions on one another.

In his lecture, the SIWES Officer, Mr. Olamide Olorunfemi intimated the students on the proper use of logbook and how to fill the other documents given to them by the ITF Officials appropriately.

Mr. Olorunfemi advised the students to take the period of learning as an opportunity to explore, learn new things and fill every document properly in order to avoid any issue before, during and after their Industrial Training program.

In his remarks, the SIWES Coordinator, Dr. O.I. Araoye appreciated the Management of the Institution for their constant support to better the lives of the students.

Dr. Araoye also thanked the ITF officials for the good relationship they have maintained with the Polytechnic over the years and called for more assistance whenever the students want to submit their logbooks and to ensure that they get their stipend as and when due.

Cooperation, Sacrifice And Hardwork: Catalyst for Development - Akintola Urges staff

The Registry Staff of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado-Ekiti, have been enjoined to make sacrifices, embrace the spirit of togetherness, and be more dedicated to their duties with a view to achieving greater heights in the Registry and taking the Institution to its zenith.

The 7th Substantive Registrar, Mrs. Folasade Akintola, who gave this charge at the handing-over ceremony/meeting with some Senior Officers in the Registry, gives glory to the Almighty God for making it possible for her to occupy such a position and appreciated everyone for the trust and confidence placed in her.

Mrs. Akintola, who was visibly elated, pledged to do everything in her power to uphold the integrity and excellence of the Polytechnic.

She clamoured for the unflinching support of all staff in the Registry, stating that much premium will be placed on collaboration in transparency, sincerity and accountability. She also urged everyone to eschew any form of bitterness and embrace the spirit of oneness to move the Institution forward.

The Registrar further encouraged everyone to look forward to enhancing operational efficiency, fostering a culture of respect, promoting professional development, strengthening communication and mentoring the young ones so as not to create a vacuum.

“By God's grace, Registry will kick start its workshop and lecture series next year. We will be having monthly in-house training and seminars from time to time. Some of these young ones do not know the nitty-gritty of the Registry, and the onus is on us to guide them through.”

Earlier in his remarks, the outgoing Acting Registrar, Mr. O.K. Babalola, congratulated the 7th Substantive Registrar for achieving such a great feat and admonished her to channel the energy into the development of the Registry and the Institution as a whole so that her name and deeds could be written in gold. He prayed that God would use her to foster love and unity in the Registry.

Mr. Babalola seized the opportunity to appreciate the cooperation, commitment, support and oneness displayed by all the senior officers in the Registry, thereby making it easy for him to record brilliant successes during the short period of serving. He therefore encouraged everyone to give the Registrar the much-needed support to serve in her new office.

He acknowledged the vital role played by the Rector, Dr. Temitope Alake, for his periodic interventions and guidance, which have enormously contributed to the successes recorded in the Registry.

He further urged the Management to attend to the urgent needs of the Registrar's office and the Registry in general. This, he said, would motivate officers to continue to give their best.

The outgoing acting Registrar also emphasized the need to expand the Registry to accommodate the realities of modern education administration, as it would reduce the issue of stagnation and enhance professionalism.

Speaking at the meeting, Deputy Registrar, SIWES, Mr. Sunday

Adeyemi-Adejolu, while felicitating with the Registrar, said that the position was designed from above as no man can receive anything except it is given by God.

Mr. Adejolu further reiterated the need to expand the Registry and admonished the Registrar to use her good office to pave the way and proffer solutions to the long-lasting needs of the Registry, “as the role we play is too germane to be downplayed by anyone”

He also called for unity and cooperation amongst the members of staff in order to fulfil the ethos of the Registry.

Mrs. Folashade Ige, the Director of Personnel and Management Services, while congratulating the Registrar, appreciated the outgoing Acting Registrar for a job well done within the limited time he was given to serve.

Mrs. Ige urged members of staff to take cognisance of all that has been said about moving the Registry forward and assured the Registrar of all the support and cooperation she needs, as the Registry is known for supporting its own.

The Deputy Registrar, Mr. Olusola Awoniyi, joined others to felicitate with the Registrar, stating that the outgoing Acting Registrar did a wonderful job as a forerunner and admonished her to build upon what is on the ground. He prayed that her tenure would not experience any form of division.

Mr. Awoniyi added that the Registry occupies a vital role in the Institution, and everyone must work hand in glove to achieve a common goal.

The Chairman of SSANIP, who is also a Deputy Registrar, Mr. Sunday Akomolafe, advised that the Registrar should make good use of her feisty character traits to the betterment of the Registry, be approachable and give listening ears to constructive criticisms this he said would move the Institution forward.

Mr. Akomolafe said that the Registrar's victory in office was a clear mandate from above and prayed that God would see her through her tenure in office.

In his remarks, the National President of the Alumni Association, Surv. Abiodun Oyedokun stated that it gives him great joy to witness such a gathering and thanked God for making it possible to have one of the Alumni of the Polytechnic as the 7th Substantive Registrar.

Surv. Oyedokun maintained that the issue of writing petitions against one another has to stop and urged everyone to focus on moving the Institution forward.

SCIENTISTS CHARGED TO BE SOLUTION-DRIVEN

Scientists have been called upon to transform their ideas into actionable plans that can be implemented at various levels of their professions to drive economic growth, create job opportunities and enhance national security.

This was the conclusion reached at the 9th Biennial International Conference of the School of Science and Computer Studies, which has as its theme, “Innovative and Scientific Solutions for Economic Revitalisation, Job Creation and Security in Nigeria”.

The Rector of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado Ekiti, Dr. Temitope John Alake, noted that the Conference came at a very crucial time where the Country is being faced with major challenges such as economic recession, unemployment and insecurity among others.

Dr. Alake, who was represented by the Deputy Rector of Administration, Dr. Michael Akinola, stated that it was noteworthy to see that researchers are continually seeking solutions to eradicate these challenges.

The Rector maintained that the role of Academia, researchers and innovators cannot be overemphasised in society, and it is important for them to upgrade beyond just identifying challenges but to find solutions that are tailored towards the advancement of the Country.

Earlier in his remarks, the Dean, School of Science and Computer Studies, Dr. Babajide Afolayan, welcomed the participants and appreciated them for the cooperation and commitment shown towards the success of the program.

Dr. Afolayan opined that the drive towards technological advancement can be achieved through the human resources in our immediate environment, and the solutions are obtainable through the various instruments at our disposal.

He urged researchers to look beyond working on research for promotion's sake but focus on channelling their energies and intellect towards ideas and innovations that would bring their potential to limelight.

Dr. Shadrach Akinkuade, the Lead Paper 1 presenter, who spoke on “Innovative Materials for Infrastructure Development and Economic Growth,” noted that the deplorable state of infrastructure has been a major concern in Nigeria and it is one of the critical factors in attracting Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) into the economy.

Dr. Akinkuade emphasised the need to break technological barriers through the development and application of innovative materials, getting constant training and experiences from experts of practising scientists, design and manufacturing engineers for students in higher institutions of learning.

The Lead Paper 1 presenter added that the development of innovative materials helps to improve performance, durability and reduce environmental impact that enabling the creation of resilient and efficient infrastructural systems.

He also encouraged researchers to embark on innovative research that would pose a challenge to the existing paradigms of “Publish or perish” and explore emerging fields such as Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning to address problems with creative solutions that will transform industries, societies and human experiences.

The Lead Paper 2 presenter, Mr. K.S.O. Ibikunle, who spoke on “Facts, Figures and Falsehood. Re-discovering Data Relevance as First Step towards True Economic Recovery”, stated that Data and Statistics provide a basis for avoiding errors, increasing the accuracy of analytics that enables the government to formulate policies, allocate resources and identify investment opportunities.

Mr. Ibikunle reeled out some challenges facing data collection and use in Nigeria, such as corruption, dishonesty, inadequate data collection training, lack of cooperation, insecurity, inadequate legal backing and deliberate alteration to suit purpose and need.

He therefore maintained that proper and effective monitoring of the income, population, activities and needs of the people through data would take the country to the path of economic recovery, and continued growth will be a viable vision in the near future.

FPA TO PARTNER NOA ON VALUE RE-ORIENTATION

The Federal Polytechnic, Ado Ekiti, has expressed its readiness to work hand in glove with the National Orientation Agency (NOA) in its quest to sensitise and restructure the value system of society at large.

The Rector of the Polytechnic, Dr. Temitope John Alake, made this known while playing host to the Ag. State Director of the agency, Mrs. Oluwakemi Akomolede and her team, who paid a courtesy visit to the Institution on Tuesday, 19th November 2024.

The Rector, who was represented by the Deputy Rector, Administration, Dr. Michael Akinola, appreciated the agency for having the interest of the populace at heart and for ensuring that some key areas of development are looked into despite the current situation of the Country.

Dr. Akinola noted that the process of reorientation in Nigeria is the job of everyone and not the government alone. "Government at all levels should embrace fairness, equity and true democracy, while the masses should also contribute their quota to national development.

He maintained that the Institution is performing excellently well in the area of Entrepreneurship. "The Centre for Entrepreneurial Development and Vocational Studies has been adjudged the centre of excellence. We have various vocational studies at the centre and we have advised our students to key into any area of interest regardless of their profession", he added.

Dr. Alake appealed to the Federal Government to do the needful in the utilisation of the monthly taxes deducted from workers. He added that the government should, as a matter of urgency, look into ways to fix the Polytechnic Road either through regular patching or proper construction.

Earlier in her remarks, the Acting State Director, Mrs. Oluwakemi Akomolede, who was visibly elated, appreciated the Management of the Institution for granting her request despite the short notice. She noted that the Agency has representatives in all the 774 local government areas of the country with the responsibility to keep the public abreast on any matter that affects national growth and development.

Mrs. Akomolede stated that the Agency has been saddled with the responsibility of mobilising and sensitising the general public about government policies and National value programmes that would help develop the Country.

The Ag. State Director stated that the Agency, with the help of its Director General, Mallam Issa Onilu has been able to come up with a lot of ideas and programmes and has recently produced a manual called the National Identity Project to appeal to the conscience of Nigerians on how to do better.

She noted that the manual contains the roles of Nigerians, citizens' oath, campaign for national symbol, environmental hazard, vocational studies, adequate security, freedom and justice, inclusivity, employment and self-education on accountability, tolerance, respect, and transparency, amongst others.

Mrs. Akomolede also added that the Agency now has a cartoon network on its website to sensitize children within the ages of 1-13 on values and heritage. She therefore appealed to everyone to help spread the news so that the younger generation can learn about their heritage at a very early stage.

She further admonished that general studies should be inculcated into the curriculum of various Institutions and the younger ones should be involved in a citizenship brigade such as the Boy Scout, Girls Guide.

Giving the vote of thanks, the Registrar, Mrs. Folasade Akintola appreciated the Ag. State Director of NOA and her team who paid a courtesy visit to the Institution and assured that everything they have preached would be put to good use.

Mrs. Akintola admonished that the sensitisation should not be limited to Institutions alone but should be taken to every nook and cranny of the State. This, she said, will give space for rapid development in the society at large.

FRESH STUDENTS ADMONISHED ON SKILL ACQUISITION

Fresh students of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado-Ekiti have been admonished to take full advantage of learning a trade, developing a skill and equipping themselves with the knowledge and expertise that will set them apart for a greater future.

The Rector of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado Ekiti, Dr. Temitope John Alake, who gave the admonition at the Matriculation Ceremony for the 2024/2025 Academic Session, noted that education is not just about acquiring certificates, but it is about becoming problem solvers and innovators in their chosen fields.

Dr. Alake maintained that the Federal Government is redirecting the aspirations of graduates from the traditional pursuit of white-collar jobs towards self-reliance, empowerment and sustainable livelihood through blue-collar jobs.

“I am proud to announce that our Polytechnic has been selected and certified by the Federal Government as one of the Institutions in Nigeria to train and award certificates under the National Skills Qualifying Framework (NSQF) Programmes”.

He stated that the fresh students are blessed to be admitted into an Institution that stands tall among its peers, adding that the consistent influx of students competing for admission into the Polytechnic speaks volumes of the quality training, mentorship and certification offered across the five schools and thirty-six accredited departments.

Dr. Alake was pleased to inform the gathering that all the programmes and courses of the Institution have been fully accredited by the National Board for Technical Education (NBTE) and other relevant regulatory bodies at both the National Diploma (ND) and Higher National Diploma (HND) levels.

He further maintained that the Institution remains committed to expanding its horizons and pursuing additional programme accreditation by the grace of God.

The Rector added that the driving force behind the success of the Polytechnic has always been the remarkable calibre of academic and non-teaching staff who guide and inspire the community.

“Our faculties comprise renowned scholars, seasoned professionals and internationally acclaimed experts with vast experience in their respective fields. Presently, the Polytechnic has over two hundred PhD holders in the academic and non-teaching cadres”.

The Rector, therefore, implored the students to view the Matriculation Ceremony as a golden opportunity to strive for and attain higher academic laurels, and to equip themselves for a rewarding future filled with possibilities.

He also urged them to be responsible with the use of social media, attend lectures regularly and punctually, make judicious use of their time, shy away from all forms of unethical behaviours, and familiarize themselves with the students' Information Handbook to know about the rules and regulations guiding their conduct as students of the Institution.

The Federal Polytechnic, Committed to Staff Capacity Training

Management of the Federal Polytechnic, Ado-Ekiti, has again reiterated its commitment towards the development of Staff through adequate training and capacity building.

The Rector, Dr Temitope John Alake, who made this known at the Opening Ceremony of a training workshop for Middle Level/Junior Registry staff of the institution, expressed satisfaction at the level of staff dedication to duties and prayed that God will prosper their ways.

Dr. Alake maintained that the integrity of the Institution must be preserved at all costs and advised members of staff to remain diligent and steadfast in whatever capacity or position they occupy to satisfy the students.

While noting that the Federal Government's position recently is to go into the digital economy, he appealed to members of staff to ensure that they acquire additional skills regardless of their chosen fields.

Earlier in her remarks, the Registrar, Mrs. Folasade Akintola appreciated God for witnessing the first of its kind training workshop for Registry Staff during her tenure. She also thanked the Rector, Dr. Temitope John Alake, for welcoming such an innovative idea and ensuring that the concept was actualized.

Mrs. Akintola noted that the theme of the workshop, "On the job, up-skilling and work ethics" was aptly chosen to equip Registry staff with the necessary knowledge, skills, impetus and best practices to excel in their various offices.

The Registrar, who maintained that the middle-level Registry staff plays a vital role in the smooth running of the operations of the Institution, hence the need for valuable opportunities for growth, development and networking to be accorded them. She added that the resource persons are seasoned administrators, and urged all participants to actively partake in the workshop, ask questions, share their experiences and learn from one another.

Mrs. Akintola further stated that members of staff are great assets to the Polytechnic and Management is dedicated to providing them with the resources, support and training necessary to excel in their careers.

Speaking at the event, the Chairman of the Registry's Committee on Training and Conferences, Mr. O.K. Babalola, welcomed everyone to the meeting. He appreciated the progressive-minded Rector who had allowed God to use him in moving the Registry forward by supporting the vision.

Mr. Babalola opined that the in-house training was designed to address noticeable flaws and gaps in various units of the Registry so as to improve the duties of staff and general functions of their offices.

While appreciating the Registrar for her vision for the development of the Registry, he admonished participants to avail themselves of such a unique opportunity to learn from each other and grow together. The Chairman of SSANIP, Mr. Sunday Komolafe, who noted that the Registry is taking back its rightful position in the scheme of things, gave kudos to the Management of the Institution for allowing such training for its staff.

He therefore appealed that the system should allow a portion for members of the Registry to acquire a higher certificate through determined and sustained sponsorship.

ANTIMICROBIAL RESISTANCE: A THREAT TO THE GAINS OF MODERN MEDICINE

Definition of terms

Antimicrobials – including antibiotics, antivirals, antifungals, and anti-parasitics – are medicines used to prevent and treat infectious diseases in humans, animals and plants.

Bacteria- are small prokaryotic organisms of the Monera kingdom. Bacteria are generally found in small strains that reproduce rapidly and frequently through asexual means such as binary fission.

Many bacterial species are beneficial to the body and are naturally found in areas such digestive tract, female genital tract, skin and other parts of the body. Probiotic cultures such as Lactobacillus acidophilus live in symbiosis with the body. As a matter of fact, only 10% of bacteria are deemed pathogenic. They secrete toxins (chemicals) which can disrupt bodily function and create infection.

Drugs used to combat infections caused by these organisms are called antibiotics

single-celled or multi-cellular, they also reproduce sexually or asexually.

They are no doubt of great economic importance e.g., includes yeasts, mushrooms, moulds and many others. They lack the pigment chlorophyll and hence live as either, saprophytes, parasites of plants and animals and some species infect and cause disease in humans, these diseases include, Aspergillosis, candidiasis Histoplasmosis and a lot more. ANTI-FUNGALS are used in the management of these diseases.

Viruses- are microscopic infectious agents that replicate only inside living cells. These microbes can infect bacteria, plants and animals. In humans some infections caused by these organisms are self-limiting e.g., include the common cold, while others like Hepatitis B, HIV 1&2 are lifelong and would require a lifetime of ANTIVIRALS to curtail. Worthy to mention is that most viral infections are best prevented with vaccines and safe sex practices.

Parasites-are organisms that live on or within a host and obtain nutrients at the host's expense. They can cause harm to the host and in rare occasions can also kill the host. They can be categorized as 1) Protozoa e.g., include plasmodium species (Which causes malaria in humans) 2) Helminths e.g., include Tapeworms etc. and 3) Ectoparasites e.g., includes Lice, Ticks etc. Each of these have the potential to cause diseases in humans either through nutrient depletion or tissue damage. Anti-parasitic are antimicrobials used to eliminate these infective organisms in humans.

Antimicrobial Resistance (AMR) occurs when bacteria, viruses, fungi and parasites no longer respond to antimicrobial medicines. As a result of drug resistance, antibiotics and other antimicrobial medicines become ineffective and infections become difficult or impossible to treat, increasing the risk of disease spread, severe illness, disability and death.

As a caveat, antibiotics is a type of antimicrobial, these two words however are used interchangeably, the definitions above is for clarity and distinction and to achieve the aim of this article

Introduction:

AMR is a natural process that happens over time through genetic changes in pathogens. Its emergence and spread are accelerated by human activity, mainly the misuse and overuse of antimicrobials to treat, prevent or control infections in humans, animals and plants

The global rise in antibiotic resistance poses a significant threat, diminishing the efficacy of common antibiotics against widespread bacterial infections. The 2022 Global Antimicrobial Resistance and Use Surveillance System (GLASS) report highlights alarming resistance rates among prevalent bacterial pathogens. Median reported rates in 76 countries of 42% for third-generation cephalosporin-resistant E. coli and 35% for methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus are a major concern. For urinary tract infections caused by E. coli, 1 in 5 cases exhibited reduced susceptibility to standard antibiotics like ampicillin, co-trimoxazole, and fluoroquinolones in 2020. This is making it harder to effectively treat common infections.

Preventive Measures for Antimicrobial Resistance

Antimicrobial resistance (AMR) can't be prevented as microbes adapt to their environment. However, the following are the measures that aid in limiting AMR.

- Spending quality time with a physician to discuss symptoms, resulting in rationalised prescription
- Following the directions exactly provided by a physician
- Avoiding medication sharing
- Avoiding unnecessary antibiotic use
- Avoiding consumption of leftover or stored prescription drugs
- Maintaining a good diet, sleep and hygiene, thereby preventing the need for antimicrobial drugs

World Antimicrobial Awareness Week

Klebsiella pneumoniae, a common intestinal bacterium, also showed elevated resistance levels against critical antibiotics. Increased levels of resistance potentially lead to heightened utilization of last-resort drugs like carbapenems, for which resistance is in turn being observed across multiple regions. As the effectiveness of these last-resort drugs is compromised, the risks increase of infections that cannot be treated. Projections by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) indicate an anticipated twofold surge in resistance to last-resort antibiotics by 2035, compared to 2005 levels, underscoring the urgent need for robust antimicrobial stewardship practices and enhanced surveillance coverage worldwide.

Emergence of drug-resistant parasites is a major threat to malaria control. Artemisinin-based combination therapies (ACTs) are the recommended first-line treatment for uncomplicated Plasmodium falciparum malaria and are used by most malaria endemic countries. Emergence of partial resistance to artemisinin and/or partner drugs in ACTs makes selecting the right treatment more challenging and requires close monitoring. In the Greater Mekong Subregion, partial resistance to artemisinin or a partner drug has been confirmed in several countries since 2001. In the WHO Eastern Mediterranean Region, resistance to a partner drug, sulfadoxine-pyrimethamine, led in some countries to treatment failure requiring a change to another ACT. In Africa, mutations linked to artemisinin partial resistance have been observed in several countries. ACTs that have been tested remain efficacious, but further spread of resistance could be a major public health challenge and improved surveillance is vital.

Causes of antimicrobial resistance: Among many others here are few of practices as it concerns us that result in AMR

Poor medical practices: In nations with under-qualified health professionals, it is common for antimicrobials to be wrongly prescribed. Treating a viral infection with antibiotics instead of antivirals will not only be ineffective but also pose a threat of developing drug resistance. This may be due to uncertainty, lack of knowledge, or simply to “be on the safe side.”

Overuse of antimicrobials: Generally, people feel re-assured by taking antimicrobials especially antibiotics when they are sick, thinking that they will get better. In many developing countries like ours, antibiotics are commercially available as over-the-counter drugs. Sometimes patient complaints will lead this untrained individual to prescribe antibiotics despite their discretion.

Incorrect dosages: Patients often discontinue their drugs before their medication is done because they start feeling better. When this happens, surviving bacteria or infective organisms, as the case may be, will reproduce to create another infection, but this time they may be tolerant to the administered drug.

What is the way out?

Antimicrobial (antibiotic) Resistance is prevalent and can only be minimised through stewardship, and as such, before each antibiotic use it must be:

1. Prescribed by an expert in this case, a medical doctor
2. The patient must be accountable, making sure to complete a full regimen as prescribed.
3. Tailoring of antibiotic use to as at when really needed or necessary, even in animal production

Not forgetting to mention that a practical and effective tool against the spread of antibiotic-resistant bacteria is through hand washing

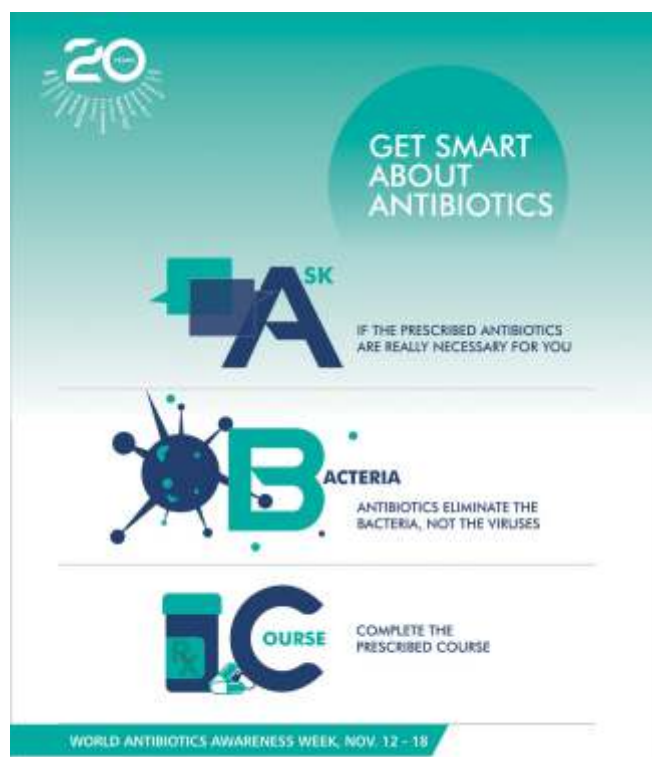

Conclusion:

The misuse and overuse of antimicrobials in humans, animals and plants are the main drivers in the development of drug-resistant pathogens, it puts many of the gains of modern medicine at risk. It makes infections harder to treat and makes other medical procedures and treatments such as surgery riskier. This raises a need for stewardship and education for the proper use of antimicrobials.

THINGS EVERY WOMAN SHOULD DO TO FILL HER OWN CUP

1. Buy things in your favourite colour. Get yourself several items in your favourite colour – a mug, a top, a pair of heels, a dress – even if it seems childish. Because, and so what if it's childish?
2. Get your nails, hair, lashes done: not for an event, not for a man, not because someone told you to, but for that feeling you get when you catch yourself in the mirror and think, oh, I'm cute. It can be just washing and restyling your hair, oiling your scalp, and shaping your nails. Just do it.
3. Invest in yourself: pay for the class. Sign up for the training that will make you better at what you do. The same way we happily drop money on our hair and fits without blinking should be the same way we drop money on skills and materials that can double our income.
4. Experience new spots and places: Try out that new restaurant in your city. Take a trip to a nearby city if you can't afford the major destinations. Visit that Art Gallery. Go anywhere that lets you see and feel something different. Expose yourself to nice things before someone else gets the credit for
5. "introducing you" to them.
5. Eat very well. Do not be stingy with your food. Stop eating like you are trying to punish yourself for something. Add the extra piece of chicken, buy the full carton of yoghurt or wine. Cook your food with enough protein. Feed yourself well. You only live once.
6. If you see something you like, buy it: stop acting like you are not allowed to have nice things. If it's within your budget and it sparks joy in your heart, get it. You are not here to only spend on bills and other people.
7. Wear what you want and feel comfortable in. That outfit you are saving for the right day? Today is the right day. Wear your mini skirt, your baggy jeans, your long dress, your crop top. Wear it. Put more effort into your appearance while you are at it. Because even on the most ordinary day, there is something about looking your best: it turns the day into an extraordinary one, and you cannot help but feel a little cuter too.

8. Treat yourself to something sweet: life will give you enough bitter moments, so don't skip sweetness when you can choose it. Maybe it's a slice of cake, or cold malt on a hot afternoon. Maybe it's plantain chips or that brand of biscuit you bought in bulk because you know you will finish it in two days.
9. Spend money on quality items: instead of wasting your money to keep buying cheap things that spoil after 2-3 uses, invest in quality items. Quality lasts, and it saves money in the long run. Buy once, cry once, at least you know you will use it for a long time.
10. Learn one thing just because it interests you.: not for work, not for school, not because it will look good on your CV. Maybe it's learning to braid your hair in a new way or trying out that recipe you saw online. Sometimes, life is not about "usefulness" but the mundane, fun skills that make you happy.

11. Buy yourself new clothes, wigs, shoes and bags. Sometimes all your confidence needs is some retail therapy. That bag or shoe you have been eyeing for months? Get it. That dress or wig that makes your social anxiety disappear? Wear it. Your wardrobe should reflect the woman you are becoming and the things that woman loves.
12. Take yourself on a solo date and look good while at it. Dress like you are either about to close a million-naira deal or meet the love of your life. Go to a nice restaurant, order what you actually want, sit by the window and enjoy your meal without rushing. The stares? That's just a bonus to how good you already feel.
13. Experience with hairstyles when you can: Braids, wigs, natural puff, a short cut, coloured tips, pixie cuts – don't be afraid to switch it up. Plus, you never know which style will unlock a new level of finesse in you. Also, it's really just hair. Experiment with it.
14. Read: fill your mind with good things – fiction, non-fiction, academia, biographies. Read widely, read often. If you are a believer, add devotionals to the mix. Open your Bible not just out of habit, but to find words that guide you when life feels heavier than you imagined.
15. Build your perfume and jewellery collection: There is a special kind of joy in smelling good and having just the right accessories. Stock up on scents that make you feel you are the best treat, even on simple days. Pick up that dainty necklace, those chunky bangles – one today, another next month, until suddenly you have got a whole stash. Then one day, you will be getting ready, need something oddly specific, and smile because, of course, you already bought it.

16. Celebrate yourself: stop waiting for your birthdays or the end of the year to do that. Did you meet a deadline? Cook the perfect pot of soup? Make a certain amount of money? Pay off debt? Celebrate it.
17. Delete numbers and let go of people that make your stomach drop when they reach out: There is no reason for you to keep a direct line to stress, regret or old drama. Free up the space – your phone and your mind will be better for it.
18. Hang out more with friends who actually like you. The ones who are always happy to have you around, who ask how you have really been and stick around to hear the answer. The ones who inspire you and remind you why life is worth showing up for, spend time with them.

The Federal Polytechnic, Ado-Ekiti, gets commendation for its uniqueness

Alake stated that he was very pleased to receive the accreditation team and noted that the essence of the exercise will be justified by the team as the strength and areas of improvement being pointed out.

Dr. Alake appreciated the focus of the Federal Government in getting Institutions equipped with the necessary measures and resources needed for students to have skills that are marketable when they graduate.

The Federal Polytechnic, Ado-Ekiti has been commended for its uniqueness and drive towards the sustainability of qualitative education. Giving the commendation at the exit interview of 17 programmes respectively visited for accreditation, inspection and verification exercise, the Executive Secretary of the National Board for Technical Education, NBTE, Prof. Idris Bugaje appreciated the Management of the Institution, for making sure that the programmes are up to standard as well as the provision of an enabling environment for the visit.

The Executive Secretary, who spoke through the Director, Polytechnic programmes Department Dr. Fatima Kabir Umar, stated that the accreditation exercise remains an avenue for students to be given enough opportunity to learn and to find their feet at the end of their programmes in the Institution.

Dr. Fatima Kabir Umar observed and appreciated the Rector and his Management team for working assiduously in maintaining an enabling environment for teaching and learning. She added that the zeal put in place to ensure that the exercise went well was a testament to their love for the Institution.

Responding, the Rector, Dr. Temitope John

The Rector stated that despite the current situation, TETFUND has been able to release funds for programme upgrades, Instructional materials, infrastructure, and staff training. He added that the Quality Assurance Assessors have come up with the issuance of certificates for students to learn and be able to hit the ground running at the end of their programmes in the Institution.

He, however, assured that areas of deficiencies pointed out by the resource persons to each programme will be considered, and efforts will be made to improve them to ensure that the Polytechnic grows. He added that the issue of dichotomy is of great concern to Polytechnic education, but there is no giving up.

Resource persons made recommendations for the purchase of required equipment and facilities to enhance various practical sessions for the students, noting that the implementation of such necessary measures would further increase their chances of obtaining the Higher National Diploma.

The team observed that the equipment, laboratories, workshops and studio should be well maintained while stressing the need to sponsor members of staff for seminars in new sustainable areas.
